Gig at the Tube club

It was a like a fast forward experience, from setting up to packing down it was just a blur. Firstly, thank you so much to all of you who turned out to support me, and especially those of you that came a long way. I was very pleased with the response on the night and the messages that have been sent to me since. The video recorded on the night came out very well so much so I have decided to release it as a live DVD and CD, details will be sent out soon. I have put one track already on the site, to view this please click the link below.

Video Streaming improvements

After adding the above video the new streaming codecs have been improved greatly. This means that for the same bandwidth you can see a much larger sized video clip. I have updated all the streaming videos that are already on the site but you will need Flash 8 player installed for your browser to see it. To go to the watch section please click this link.

Live Internet Gig

One of the difficulties of having contacts around the world is the difficulty of a lot of you seeing me play live, well of course until the world tour anyway. So to help in this I am planning a live internet gig to be broadcast worldwide with an interactive email address so you can get in touch with me during the gig. Plans for this are in the early stages but one thing I would like to know is what time to put this on to be a suitable time for all. I think that 3pm in London sort of covers most people, well just about so during the summer months here in London times would be the following.

3pm (London) = Midnight in Sydney, 11pm Singapore, 7pm Dubai, 4pm Paris, 10am Montreal, 7am Los Angeles.

Don't worry it will only be an hour :-), let me know what you think.
