General

This has been a quiet month on the music front although I have written a new song entitled "It's all about". This you can hear in the music latest section. The Live DVD has been taking a lot longer to finish than I had expected, I have recently made a lot of progress so hopefully I should have more news on it next month.

Competition Gig in Earls Court

On Thursday 29th June I will be playing a competition gig in London, The idea of the competition is a bit like a shoot out where singer songwriters play a set of 3 songs and get voted to progress to the next round. The eventual final will be as part of a national live music festival later in the year. To find out details about this gig then click the link below.
