

the day the walls fell in

Words and Music by Richard Hingley © 2005

Verse 1

People tell me be true to yourself
Seems so easy for those who look in on me
Passing judgment on how I should feel
How to rectify and how to heal

Bridge 1

But I want to feel again just how I used to be Just give me your light to aim for
So I'll grasp that burning flame
To try to ease the pain 'cos

Chorus

That was the day the walls fell in A moment of madness that built within
How can I hold back the guilt
To think that was the answer
It seemed so very simple then extinguish all the lights and just fade away, just fade away, just fade away
I'm fading, I'm fading

Verse 2

Absent minded with selfish thoughts
Consume my day with, without a thought for anyone
I can't believe that I've have come this far
From the strength of humanity to the edge of insanity

Bridge 2

But I can just remember
That person I want to be
So tell me which direction
To drive on through the night
A chance at second sight

Chorus 2

Outro

That was the day that the walls fell in.. (rpt)

I'm fading, I'm Fading, I'm fading away
